Buell's Army in a Tight Place—Important Movement in East Tennessee.

MOBILE, July 22.

The Advertiser & Register has advices from Chattanooga of the 19th. Our troops were concentrating in considerable force at Tullahoma, 40 miles the other side of Stephenson. Buell's army was in a tight place.

The activity of our army in East Tennessee indicates an important movement.

The War Meeting in New York—Atrocious Sentiments—A Letter From Seward.

Meeting in New York was "the venerable Dr. King, of Columbia College. He is reported to have said:

"We have hitherto lacked in our energies. We have thought too well of those who have once been our friends. Our enemies make war in earnest. They lose no opportunity of doing us injury. They have no remembrance that we were once their brethren. If they torget, then let us forget too.

"Let us treat them as enemies, as traitors and as usurpers of a power that does not belong to them; as men whom we must annihilate if we are to have peace in all future time. We have been lacking in earnestness and in resolution in the defence of our liberties. Let us make this war fierce and bloody, as far as it can be made by civilized men. Let there be no temporizing or moderation; let us act by the rule, "Might makes right." We are here twenty to one, with all the advantages that science and skill can give us. Let us now, therefore, strike rapid and continuous blows, constantly, unceasingly—blows that shall tell."

The Chairman read the following letter, which ellcited enthusiastic applause:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, July 14, 1862.

GENTLEMEN: Your note, inviting me to attend a meeting of loyal citizens of New York, to be held to-morrow evening, has been received.

The objects of the meeting are of vital importance—they involve nothing less than a choice between an early peace, with the deliverance of the nation from all surrounding dangers, or a protracted war, with hazards of ultimate national dissolution. Public duties forbid my leaving the capital at this moment, but I have given to the only male member of my family, not already in the public service, permission to enrol himself as a private in the ranks of the volunteers, which it is your purpose to send into the field. I have the honor to be, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

WM. H. SEWARD.

FROM NEW-ORLEANS.—We learn from Butler's Delta of the 10th instant that there were several arrivals on the 9th instant, mostly of small coasters. They came with sugar and molasses, but not a bale of cotton. There were two clearances, one for Havana and the other for New York, but neither of them carried away a single bale of the great staple. Four hundred tons of ice had arrived.

An order had been issued by Butler offering food to destitute people, but with the provison that no application will be received from any, but "loyal citizens." The Confederates will, therefore, be left to starvation. This is one of many similar plans that Butler adopts to make loyal citizens.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE PEOPLE.—The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph, of July 19th, says: CORN.—We learn that several large planters in South-western Georgia have sold their growing crop of corn, to be delivered, at twenty-five cents per bushel, and many others are anxious to sell at the same figures.

Not Entitled to Discharge.

As a matter of information to our military readers, we copy the following late general order from the Richmond papers:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Adjt. and Insp. Gen's Office,
RICHMOND, July 1.

General Orders, No. 46.

II. Par. IV, General Order, No. 44 Current Series, is hereby recinded, and the following paragraph is subsituted in lieu thereof:

Persons under 18 and over 35 years of age, who have re-enlisted for three years [illegible] charge under the Conscript Act. Persons of the ages above mentioned, who enlisted for twelve months or for a shorter term, will be entitled to their discharge ninety days after the expiration of their term of service.

THE YANKEE WAR TAX.—Abe. Lincoln has issued a proclamation that "the States of South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, North Carolina, and the state of Virginia, are now insurrection and rebellion, and by reason thereof the civil authority of the United States is obstructed so that the provisions of the "act to provide revenue from imports to pay the interest on the public debt and for other purposes," approved August fifth, eighteen hundred and sixty one, cannot be peaceably executed, and that the taxes legally chargable under the act last aforesaid, lying within the States and parts of States as aforesaid, together with a penalty of fifty per centum of said taxes, shall be a lien upon the tracts or lots of the same severally till paid." The following counties in Virginia are excluded from the operations of this penalty:

Hancock, Brooke, Ohio, Marshall, Wetzel, Marion, Monongalia, Preston, Taylor, Pleasants, Tyler, Ritchie, Doddridge, Harrison, Wood, Jackson, Wirt, Roane, Balhoun, Gilmer, Barbour, Tucker, Lew's Braxton, Upshur, Randolph, Mason, Kanawha, Clay, Nicholas, Cabell, Wayne, Boone, Logan, Wyoming, Webster, Fayette, Raleigh.

LINE OF TELEGRAPH.—The Rockingham "Register" states that a line of telegraph, connecting Harrisonburg and Staunton, is now in course of construction. It is a "military necessity," of which General Robertson is disposed to avail himself.—[illegible] with our State and Confederate capital. Major Harman has charge of the construction of the line.

FORWARDING [illegible]

[illegible] determined to [illegible] the service, the undersigned, who has been for [illegible] the forwarding Agent of the Company for the last five years, has associated with him the Chief Clerk in the department, and, under the name of GANTT & STONY, will continue to RECEIVE and FORWARD such articles as may be consigned to their care. He trusts, by strict personal attention, to retain a very liberal share of the business of the department.

Parties are reminded that all goods now reaching this port from points beyond the Confederate States of America, must be entered at the Custom House, and that duties are payable on such as are not purchased on or before the [illegible] February last, and laden on shipboard on or before the 15th March instant, save such as are on the free list. It is therefore necessary that remittances be made to pay the duties where duties are payable, AND IN ALL CASES TO COVER THE CHARGES AT CUSTOM HOUSE ALSO, WHETHER THE GOODS ARE FREE OR NOT. Prompt compliance will prevent delay and expense, as all articles not entered and permitted will be stored by the Custom House officers. The South Carolina Railroad Company will advance, as heretofore, the charges of freight, drayage and warfage, but not the expenses connected with the Custom House.

Rates of charges for forwarding will be very moderate, and may be had on application to GANTT & STONY, to whom all business communications should be addressed.

The undersigned refers to the officers of the South Carolina Railroad Company, to the customers of the Forwarding Department, and to all merchants of standing in the city of Charleston, and respectfully solicits a liberal share of patronage.

Conscripts.

On reference to notice in another column it will be seen that Capt. [illegible] C. McRae, C S. A., commanding at Salisbury, has given notice that Conscripts are not to be ordered out until further notice.

Help! Help! Help!

Sick and wounded soldiers are lying in a destitute condition at the Hospital without beds, bedding or necessary nourishment.

Salt beef, pork and hard biscuits are not palatable.

Ladies of Charlotte, it is only necessary to report the condition of our warriors to you and solicit your aid. Bring what you can, soup, tea, light bread, or whatever you can spare.

Ladies of the Soldiers Aid Society!—Make sacks and have them filled with straw for the sick and wounded.

In God's name we call upon those who have to give, give, give, give and give freely to our sick and wounded warriors, who, when well, are ready to offer up their lives in battling for your homes, institutions and liberties.

A Reform is Needed.

The scenes that have been enacted in Charlotte during the past fortnight have been disgraceful and the citizens—at least a large number—have expressed the hope that something will be done to effectually close up the dram shops in Charlotte.—They are—at least a majority of them,—a curse to the community and the cause of insult to our mothers, wives and daughters.

It is true that our city officers are exerting themselves to detect and bring to punishment those who are violating the law by selling liquor to the soldiers, and we doubt not they will do all they can to suppress the illegal practices of those who have no regard for decency, order or the modesty of the ladies of Charlotte.

We are convinced, from what has occurred, that our retail dram shops are not responsible for all the drunkenness and vulgarism that have been exhibited in our streets during the past week. There are other persons who sell by the quart and are stealthily dealing out liquid poison, for the love of money and at the risk of character and every noble sentiment, regardless of the awful consequences which must result.

If the drunken sot who has tumbled in the gutter after being supplied with the intoxicating drink were to be [illegible] to the residence of the vender, and his wife and daughters,—if he has any, who borrow their plumage from the dregs of the rum bottle,—were made to bear the insults and submit to the degradation drunken rowdiery are prepared to inflict, we would not complain, but in the name of decency and virtue we do protest against the continuance of the practice of selling liquor to drunken soldiers, whereby the innocent suffer, and in order to put an end to this practice we petition Capt. Echols, the Quartermaster of this post, to use his influence to abate the horrid evil, for it is past endurance. By co operating with the city authorities, which we are sure he will be glad to do, and conferring with the officers in command of soldiers passing through Charlotte, the military arm can be stretched out and the criminals made to feel its power and authority. Make the soldiers point out the violators of law and bring them to speedy and severe punishment.

"Ion," of the Baltimore [illegible] writes from Washington as follows:

Some of the press of the [illegible] are suggesting the upper part of the valley of Virginia as the most advantageous point for the location of the proposed [illegible] of instruction. Such a camp might become very practically [illegible] in defending raids from the [illegible] of the valley, endangering the [illegible] between the West and Washington upon the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. By uniting Strasburg and Winchester by rail road, troops could be sent [illegible] expedition up the valley to [illegible] or via Manassas Gap to Gordonsville. In this way the Federal Government [illegible] effect military operations in a larger [illegible] at a trifling expense.

Wonder if they wouldn't [illegible] to ask Stonewall Jackson's consent [illegible]

McClellan's [illegible] Lincoln Senator on Wednesday [illegible] Chandler, of Michigan, occupied the [illegible] session with a long speech on the conduct of the war, quoting largely from [illegible] taken before the Committee on the Conduct of the War, going to show that before the march on Manassas, Gen. McClellan had 230,000 men under his command, of whom 153,000 were sent down to the Peninsula, where they were set [illegible] and then ordered to [illegible] instead of Richmond. [illegible]

Vicksburg.

The city of Vicksburg is situated on the eastern bank of the Mississippi, and on a high elevation, which, not being a bluffy ascent, but gradual and sloping, leaves the city thus elevated some distance from the river. This slope has been graduated and macadamized into a fine wharf immediately in front of the city, but above and below the wharf the ascent becomes rougher, until the ridges or bluffs strike the river and rise abruptly from the edge of the water.

The bluffs immediately above the city are called Walnut Hills, and those below the city and between it and the Big Bayou are familiarly known as Terrill's Bluffs. About ten miles by river, south from Vicksburg, is a little town called Warrenton, lying also some distance, perhaps a mile, from the Mississippi. Big Bayou is a stream of considerable dimensions, which enters the Mississippi about three miles above Warrenton and seven from Vicksburg.

The main stream of the Big Bayou runs nearly due west for seven or eight miles, but there is another branch of it which rises to the rear of Vicksburg, and runs five miles almost parallel with the Mississippi at about the distance of three miles, until it flows into the Bayou two miles and a half from the river.

The summits of the bluffs below the city are level and thickly covered with forests and undergrowth. The country is exceedingly fertile and productive. The bluffs are, in all brobability, not less than one hundred feet above the river. "Walnut hills," above the city, are of the same character as "Terrill's bluffs," and admirable for defence against gunboat approach.

It has been proved and is generally known, that the gunboats can seldom act effectually against batteries on a bluff, as the former are so built that the desired elevations are not to be obtained, while the bluff batteries, have an advantage in the fact that weak parts of the gunboats are exposed.

The Fight at Vicksburg.

The Jackson Mississippian of the 16th reports:

The telegraph brings the intelligence just as we go to press, that six or eight of the enemy's fleet did pass the city going down the river last night, pouring broadside after broadside into our batteries and the Arkansas. Two men were killed on the Arkansas. We heard of no further disaster.

The following is a graphic report of the achievements of the ram Arkansas as reported by the Mississippian.

One who occupied a most favorable position, and who saw and heard everything which it was possible to see or hear, states that from the dome of the Court House, distant two miles from the scene of action, he had an unobstructed view of the magnificent panorama. The Arkansas moved down the avenue of death as quietly as ever a pleasure boat floated on the bosom of a placid lake. Her entrance was signaled by a tempest of terrible missiles than ever decended upon a single vessel. From thirty to forty of the most powerful gun boats and rams, including the famous Benton, the pride and boast of the Federal navy, exhausted their magazines, and ordnance of immense calibre, in the vain effort to engulph her. But forward and forward, she went, pouring into this one a broadside, and rushing furiously against that one, until two struck their flags, and rushed ashore to escape the murderous fire. Turning suddenly, amid the leaden storm which was decending upon her louder than the bolts of Heaven, she dashed impetuously and with all the power she could command against the Benton, giving her a thrust in the side which is believed to have broken several of her ribs, if not to have inflicted a mortal wound.

The battle continued to rage with unabated violence—the Arkansas still moving forward majestically, amidst death-shots falling thick and fast, and yet, with the exception of her smoke stack being riddled, not a casualty had occurred on board. Had not the smoke and heat become stifling as to compel the opening of one of the port holes, we should have been spared recording a single misfortune. That circumstance, however, enabled the enemy to effect an entrance, and the losses notified in our dispatch of yesterday were produced by a ball passing through the port-hole. And now the gauntled was run, the terrible ordeal escaped, and the noble Arkansas having passed through the avenues of death, nothing remained but to wave her adieus, which she did in the most gallant and feeling manner from the two sons of Mars who presided in the rear of her court. And then the red field was won, and the Neptune crowned her Queen of his realm.

As she took leave of the formidable fleet and rounded the point above the city—turning her bow to port—her noble flag seemed instinct with life, as the gentle breeze displayed its glittering folds. Had nothing else been done during the war, this single feat would have written immortality in characters of living light, all over those broad and ample folds.

The scene which followed the landing of the Arkansas was of the most thrilling character. The crowd rushed to the wharf frantic with joy. As the immortal heroe, Commodore Brown, presented himself to view, the warm, fresh blood still trickling down his furrowed cheeks, from his wounded head, the enthusiasm became impressible. All felt that a debt of gratitude was due to him and his officers and crew which could never be repaid.

When the circumstances are considered, is it too much to say that the victory is more signal and glorious than any one recorded in naval history. In the case of the Merrimac (Virginia) there were these points of difference. She was a vessel of vastly greater dimensions. She probably cost five times as much as the Arkansas. Every facility was enjoyed in her construction which money or material could furnish. She was attended by several other [illegible] vessels. She engaged only some eight [illegible] of the enemy's fleet. In the case of the Arkansas—she went unattended [illegible] her expedition, escape was hopeless. She met in deadly combat about forty of the best cannon proof vessels belonging to the enemy's navy.

The world will accord her the greatest victory ever achieved on the watery realm. Each officer and each sailor has linked his name with immortality. Let them be published at once for the admiration of mankind. Let a grateful community transmit them to an admiring posterity, to be remembered forever, as the champions of human freedom.

All hail glorious Arkansas!

Later from Europe.

The steamship Persia, which sailed from Liverpool on July 5, and from Queenstown, the 6th, reached New York Wednesday. Her news is two days later than received by the Norwegian. The London Times in an editorial on the American War has another attack upon Yankee institutions, which the New York Herald and Tribune both characterize as malicious. The Times and the London Herald argue that, if the Northern States were loyal to the principles of the constitution, they would consent to a peaceable separation. The daily News and the Star denounce the article of the Times as un-English.

Parliament was occupied with discussing the condition of British America, and especially with the feasibility of establishing a road between Canada and Columbia.—The late news respecting Mexico discloses no new facts. According to one report, the Emperor will send an additional force of at least 25,000 to Mexico; according to the other, he will try to get out of the expedition as soon and as easy as possible. The Grand Duke Constantine has arrived at Warsaw, and been in the whole well received by the Poles. Yet on the night of the 3rd instant, an unknown man had slightly wounded him while stepping into his carriage.

COMMERCIAL.

The Liverpool cotton market was firm on the 6th of July, with limited sales at the rates reported by the Norwegian. Breadstuffs were dull; but the market was steady. Provisions were inactive. American securities declining rapidly. Consols closed in London on the 6th instant at 92@92¼.

From Harper's Ferry.

Winchester Threatened Again—The Secessionists Jubilant—Supply Depots at New Creek Broken Up.

The special correspondent of the New York Tribune telegraphs the following:

HARPER'S FERRY, July 15.

The aspect of affairs in the vicinity of Winchester and throughout that section of the Valley of the Shenandoah is very unfavorable, and fears are entertained that we shall soon have trouble, in consequence of the threating appearance of matters at Winchester, the stores and all other valuables of the army have been safely removed here by way of the Potomac and Winchester Railroad.

Various rumors are afloat in regard to the movements of the enemy, and it is reported here that our pickets were driven in below Winchester last night. In anticipation of danger, the telegraph office at that place has been removed over a mile from the town, near the fortifications. The friends of the South here and at Martinsburg are "acting as if they had heard good news," and express their confidence that the rebels will made a raid into the Valley as far as Winchester before many days.

The forces at Winchester, if compelled to retreat will fall back upon this place, which we can hold against vastly superior odds. The movements of our forces I cannot state, but I believe that Gen. Pope has them so posted as to foil Jackson should he venture too far. There seems to be a general impression here that Winchester will be the scene of a fierce battle before a week. It is rumored that Jackson, with one half of the large army which he took to Richmond so suddenly, has returned, and been reinforced by the numerous guerrilla bands about the country.

During the last ten days our vast depots of supplies at New Creek, Martinsburg, and other places, have been broken up, and the stores removed elsewhere, so that the rebels can have no temptation along the line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. There is not much prospect of their interfering with trains on this road, as they are well guarded by Adjutant Gen. Miles here, and Gen. Kelly, at Cumberland both of whom are under the command of Maj. Gen. Wool of this department.

A brave and patriotic youth, O. C. Philpe, a private in the 2d N. C. State troops, sick and excused by the Medical Surgeon, got up during the late battle near Richmond and went musket in hand, as he said, to drive or help drive the invading foe from our soil, contrary to the wishes of his officers, took his gun and rushed into battle, and whilst in the thickest of the fight, was stricken down, by a grape shot. His comrades insisted upon taking him off the field, but he refused, saying no, you can do more good here where you are—go on—which we did, and in an hour returned and found him dead of his wounds. The noble youngster would not permit a man to stop to attend to his own sufferings. But urged them to go on and drive the wretches back. This is but another instance of patriotic Carolina's noble sons, who, regardless of self, and devoted to the welfare of the South, expired as a sacrifice to his country's cause. Brave, generous, noble hearted; he leaves broken hearted mother, sisters and brothers to mourn his loss. Such devotion to patriotism in this our Southern cause is rarely ever surpassed.

ONE WHO FOUGHT BY HIS SIDE.
Salisbury Watchman.

We clip the following paragraphs from the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph of July 19th:

CANNON.—Twenty-two pieces of artillery, part of the eighty pieces taken by the English from the Russians at the battle of Inkerman, and presented to the Confederacy by British merchants (brought over in the Nashville,) have arrived here. They bear evidence of having seen service. With some alterations, they will hereafter speak for themselves in a manner highly creditable. Some thirty eight pieces more are expected to be brought here, at the same lot.

The Crisis, a paper printed at Columbus, Ohio, and edited by SAM. MEDARY, is far the ablest political journal in the State, is highly conservative, and comes out fairly and squarely against the Black Republican administration—charges that party with precipitating the country into war, and insists that unless the Republicans are turned out of office at once and kicked into nonentity, the Federal Government will be irretrievably destroyed and the liberties of the people sunk forever.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, another leading journal, takes the same view. Both these papers have a large and rapidly increasing circulation, and it is evident opposition to the war is fast gaining strength in the West and Northwest.

Capt. R. L. Tucker's cavalry have arrived in this city, on a furlough of a few days. They paid their respects to Gov. Clark on their arrival, and then partook of a treat given to them by old Buck Tucker. We were invited, but reached the field too late. This company has been on hard, active service for a considerable time, and look remarkably well. Old Jeff. Utley looks "harder" than ever.—State Journal.

DEATH OF MAJ. T. N. CRUMPLER.—We regret to learn that Maj. T. N. Crumpler died lately at Richmond of the wounds he received at the disastrous charge of the 1st N. C. Cavalry. His wound was a shot in the side, penetrating his breast. He survived some fifteen days. His body has been sent home for interment.—Ibid.

LIEUT. ALSTON.—The report of the death of Lieut. Junius Alston, of the 2d N. C. Troops, we are glad to learn is incorrect. He was shot through the body and lung, but is now in a fair way of recovery.—Ibid.

To Voters of Mecklenburg:

Some weeks ago my friends announced me as a Candidate for the Legislature, but not feeling that it was convenient for me to enter the contest, I last week published a card declining. On reflection, and at the solicitation of numerous friends, I have concluded to become a Candidate, and therefore announce myself as a Candidate for a seat in the House of Commons of the next General Assembly of North Carolina. In order that my position may be understood, I will state that I am for Col. Wm. Johnston for Governor, and in favor of prosecuting the war until our independence is established. If my fellow-citizens of Mecklenburg see proper to elect me I will serve them to the best of my ability.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

TO THE MANUFACTURERS OF THE SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY.

I have a Receipt to make a liquid to mix ½ and ½ with any kind of Oil (except pure Lard) which is equal to Spurm Oil for Machinery. This liquid can be made at a cost of five dollars per Barrel of 36 gallons. It can be made in 30 minutes and be ready for use in 4 hours. This Oil will not create any gum, but will cut away all gum that has been created by other Oils. It is better than Spurm Oil for Machinery of quick motion. It is the very article for Cotton and Paper Mills. Any one that wants the receipt can address me at this place and I will give any information concerning it, price, &c., &c.
